

Nazi Sign Prompts Look at Run-Down Detroit Packard Plant

YAHOO! CONTRIBUTOR NETWORK

By Marilisa Sachteleben / Yahoo! Contributor Network – Thu, Feb 14, 2013

A German sign appeared here ...

Detroit's derelict Packard Plant. ...

"Arbeit macht frei" means "labor makes one free" in German. These words became a symbol of Jewish oppression under the Third Reich, as the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz bore this legend. In February, this slogan appeared in graffiti across the walkway of Detroit's derelict Packard plant on East Grand. It ignited a firestorm of debate. Jewish groups and Holocaust survivor collectives pushed for its removal, saying it was an offensive, ugly reminder of past suffering, reports the Detroit Free Press. Packard has a long history of notoriety in Detroit.

The walkway where the sign appeared connects two sides of what was Packard's 35-acre industrial complex. The plant opened in 1903 and became the luxury auto leader in the '20s, outselling Cadillac and all competitors combined, says a Detroit Free Press special report.

Packard equipped the U.S. defense effort in two world wars, making engines for Liberty military aircraft in World War I. In WWII, Packard workers helped Detroit earn President Franklin D. Roosevelt's distinction as an "arsenal of democracy." Detroit put out one-third of the nation's war production, says the Detroit Historical Society. Packard built engines for U.S. and allied military.

At its peak in 1943, Packard employed 36,000 people. It became a staging ground for racial integration and paid the price. Detroit's Great Rebellion says that when three black men were promoted to the white-only assembly line, 25,000 white employees walked out.

Packard, once a symbol of prosperity and industrial might, is now a crumbling wreck. The last auto rolled off the line in 1954. It's an attractive nuisance for illegal dumpers, vandals, urban spelunkers, and scrappers, says MLive. Locals decry it as a dangerous eyesore. says the Detroit Free Press. Other graffiti besides the "Arbeit Macht Frei" sign decorates the building.

When the Nazi slogan appeared, locals and readers debated -- was it provocative art, hate speech, a social statement on the auto industry decline, or just random graffiti? Regardless, members of the Jewish community in Detroit wanted it gone, says MLive. And a blogger from Detroit Funk agreed. He went to the Packard plant and tore down the sign placards.

A December Detroit Free Press piece explains legal hassles with the Packard property. Dominic Cristini bought it in 1998 and housed his business, Bioresource, there. Cristini owes the city back taxes. Cristini prevailed in a 2006 ownership battle, then went to prison for dealing drugs. He's now collecting rent from the last property tenant, while claiming not to own the associated Bioresource. Cristini is suing the city for not securing the property during a period when they claim ownership. Estimates say the property will cost more than it's worth to clean up.

Impressive, it took only 3 black men to crumble a mighty factory

It's unfortunate that the grafftiist used a phrase from a tyrannical bureaucracy. I'm guessing what he meant was: Working for a living makes you free. As opposed to: Depending on the government makes you a slave. And I expect to get a lot of thumbs down from the lame brained marxist libs.

Alana • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Wow the people saying "just tear it down" or "if its eyesore why is it still there" obviously don't know Detroit. Don't u think its what they're trying to do, not with this but with all of em.

So tired of hearing about people complaining about events or tragedies that happened nearly a century ago or in some cases longer (hint: slavery). This is why America is slowly falling apart. People are too stupid to learn from these events and push on to create a better future, but instead they relish on these past events and stagnate any kind of progress because it reminds them of what once happened. Most people have never been directly affected by any of these events, including the ones who complain about them! We need to start putting in ant-complain laws into place that prevents the influence of events that have no relative application in today's world from dictating our way of life today.

jacob • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

That plant looks like a bombed out building from WWII and the neighborhood,what's left of it,is not much better. Just another Detroit eye sore.Not very many people left in that area let alone Jews.

MarcD • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

"Labor Makes One Free." Isn't that the slogan of the UAW? Isn't that what "Labor Day" is all about? Isn't the Marxist theory of Labor ruling the masses supposed to be the ultimate freedom? Isn't Labor what the Democrats are pandering to? Especially CHEAPER labor with their pandering now to illegal immigrants?

MarcD • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Detroit died. The only thing they haven't done is bury the dead, decaying corpse. If you bulldozed the entire city, nothing would be missed except the memory of the 1950's and earlier. All the business has moved out years ago to Oakland County and beyond, and any remaining business will easily move, too, if necessary.

Roxy • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The sign is only half the story. Look at that building. If you drive through Detroit, you will see building after building that looks just like that...derelict ruins. Progressive Liberalism kills.

BIGB2726 • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

It should have been tore down along time ago along with all of the burned houses in the city! Hell tiger stadium was only closed a short period of time and they were in a hurry to demolish it even though people were willing to renovate it!!!

Kevin W • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

KeithT • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

What a said state of affairs. The people need to get over the past. It has no bearing on living your "death" in the state of NOW terms. I Am not saying forget the past. Just use it to your advantage. It doesn't matter if a bunch of people were murdered. It was all predestined.

JTS80 • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

I'm sorry, but with all of Detroit's problems, focussing on this is just nonsense. Detroit is a perfect example of what happens when democrats are allowed to run a city their way. This is the future under democrats and all you #$$% that vote for them are complicit in Americas' destruction.

STEPHEN • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Drunken Joe Biden • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Mountain out of a mole hill. Detroit needs to address it's real problem, BLACK gang violence and a bankrupt municipal government...

M • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

If we continue down the current road we are on, with the tyrannical leaders we have in place. we will repeat history. remember what the nazi did !!! and as far as detroit is concerned. just another city brought to blight by its own occupants . let them live in there own filth if thats what they choose.

Tom • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

What about all the gang signs? The anti-US grafitti? The anti-government grafitti? The anti- white, black, mexican and all the other trash grafitti on these buildings? Is it only suddenly offensive because now the worlds professional victims have now been riled? I think some stupid kids idea of a sick little joke, or some stupid college kids idea of equating a death camp with an abandoned factory is way down the list of things most folks in Detroit care about. Bet they never cared about the plant or the people trying to survive around it until they saw this.

VB • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

I think people are missing the point.

It's a reminder that there is no work/labor in Detroit. Unemployment is through the roof. Which I believe the artist is saying you can never be free in a city this degraded

RANDY • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

All the historical sites in this country and a company who pulled a military through TWO world wars is allowed to decay as such. Government tells me that politics is not involved with HISTORICAL SITES when Motown Records, (in the same city), affords this luxury of being preserved. WHY ... simply...because it is a black run city.

You have 30 Days to bring to code the building that you own or the City of Detroit will burn said building to the ground and remove the ashes of said building. The bill will be sent to you and you will be required to pay said bill within one year of demolition. If not a lien will be placed on everything that you own and a garnishment will be placed on any income that you may have now or in the future until said bill is paid. If not paid within allotted time said property will become property of the City of Detroit and sold for said amount owned to the City of Detroit to the highest bidder.

Ogie • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

besides a few raves in the 90's the building has been sitting empty for 30 years. all of the crime in that area of detroit and they are worried about some paint? here is an idea, if you don't like the graffiti tear down the building so bums and drug addicts don't have a place to mingle.

Julie • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

If anyone wants to see what liberal policies really do, just look at Detroit. It's making remarkable progress now, but that is because of commitments from private citizens and businesses. The Detroit government - City Council - is doing everything in its power to put up roadblocks to these improvements. They would rather have third-world conditions than to allow a non-government person or entity to help. And to think, this is exactly what Obama wants for all of America, to have the liberal policies of big government control everything.

I am from Detroit. There are many people who are unaware of the tremendous impact Detroit had on WWII. Auto factories were quickly turned into military equipment manufacturing along with the workers. They were the backbone that provided the essential supplies and assets to the brave Americans who fought to protect world freedoms. The history of these facilities and the people who worked so hard to protect OUR freedoms need to be preserved and remembered. They are the Greatest Generation. Their legacy will never be forgotten.

Packard closed shop in Detroit in 1956.... just shows how dysfunctional Detroit has always been. The beginning of the end came in 1967, and the city is now finally dead, it just doesn't know it yet- the great Kwame ( "gimme dat cash") Kilpatrick finally ended the ruse.

Raze it to the ground and start over. The move on to Cleveland, East St Louis, Gary, Camden, Newark and Weirton WVA - put em all out of misery

If the City of Detroit wants to clean itself up, increase code enforcement on delinquent property owners. Ticket delinquent owners until they clean up properties like the Packard plant or give them up. Enforce building and ordinance codes, and crack down on illegal dumping. Double police presence and crack down on crime. Increased ordinance and crime enforcement would ultimately translate into more revenue to a cash strapped city.

Governments primary responsibility is to provide a safe, clean environments where people and buisness can thrive

What a great idea! Write "Arbeit macht frei" on things you want torn down... love it... Now let me just find my spray can and we can clean up this city fast!

Paul • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The money spent to tear down the Packard complex would be better served cleaning up the rest of the city. You can have a much greater impact elsewhere with limited city resources. Parkard is a small soar in a city full of terminal cancer. As one of the tax payers that would have to actually pay the bill, I would rather see the money better spent on clearing blight in the neighborhoods. If you are all so worried about the plant why don't you all move back to the city and help clean it up one street at a time??? Bring back neighborhoods, build new buisnesses and drive out crime, then the city would have the resources to deal with larger scale projects like the Packard Plant. Detroit was originally built from pioneers in industry, and it died when people gave up on the city. Detroit can only be revived with innovation, determination and courage from individuals not by the Government

Barney Rubble • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

@Paul, although I agree 100% with your assertions, I also note that you are asking people to "move back to the city and help clean it up", but exactly who are you asking to move back? And why would we move back when the current population are so prone to break in to our homes, steal our cars, sell and abuse drugs, and commit wanton violence against each other with no regard for innocent bystanders? If any cleaning up needs to be done, I think it should be rounding up those people and.... I don't know.... Maybe building a place where they can all work.... And we can put a sign at the entrance that says "Work will make you free."

Jim • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Why would I move into a schithole I had no hand in creating? My current home, NOT IN Detroit is very nice and safe. And paid for. Black People in Detroit have a very different idea as to what constitutes "Quality Of Life".

Paul • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

I agree. Detroit will not be revitalized until the rule of law is re-established on its streets. Detroit needs to be a place where the criminals are the ones in fear not the otherway around. Detroit needs decent people to take a stand against crime and blight in the city. A good "Quality of Life" is created by individuals in a community. I have news for you, the suburbs are full of home break-in's, car thefts, and drug use too When do you draw the line on the retreat?

That said, I will re-state that Detroit's limited resources would be better used elsewhere than on removing a long forgotten old factory. Direct funds into stabilizing neighborhoods, more police officers and increase code enforcement in the city. Personally am all for putting low risk criminals to work. They could start by picking up all the trash in the neighborhoods, boarding abandoned properties, maintaining parks, and cutting down weeds on city owned lands.

It will probably take decades more to revive Detroit, and it's going to take a more active role from State and the County especially in the areas of law enforcement. Detroit no longer has the political will or resources to tackle crime on its own. If a big factory or even a small business shuts its doors in the city due to lack of business, or due to the crime it most likely means the loss of a job for someone living in the suburbs. Overall the stability, and economic viability of the communities around Detroit depends a great deal on what happens in the city. So, how well does retreat, avoid and forget really work out?

darryl • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The ruins of Detroit are the only fascinating features of this American monument to failure. Tourists the world over would pay to take pictures, gather artifacts, interview homeless, winos and criminals, and gape at the demise of what was the 'Arsenal of Democracy'.

I see progress for this property. The structure itself must come down It's not safe, or viable for a business as it stands, It will never be what it was. Why not, bring it down, offer pieces of it, "bricks and remaining structures" for a donation. Everyone wants a piece history, I think. That could cover the cost of destruction and then some for a company willing to do the task. I cherish the brick I got from Hudson's implosion. Just a thought.

For future , have a historical marker placed for future generations.
As far as the property, can make it anything anyone wants to make Detroit great again

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

K. YoIU asked for it cut n paste boy...

Federal welfare spending has grown by 32 percent over the past four years, fattened by President Obama's stimulus spending and swelled by a growing number of Americans whose recession-depleted incomes now qualify them for public assistance, according to numbers released Thursday.

Federal spending on more than 80 low-income assistance programs reached $746 billion in 2011, and state spending on those programs brought the total to $1.03 trillion, according to figures from the Congressional Research Service and the Senate Budget Committee. (Washington Times)

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Beyond that, the next big program is food stamps at $75 billion in 2011, or 10 percent of welfare spending. It's nearly twice the size it was in 2008 and accounts for a staggering 20 percent of the total welfare spending increase over those four years.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

According to President Obama, cutting government spending will "certainly slow our recovery." Over and over again, he has described the sequester's threatened $85 billion cut in spending out of a $3.8 trillion budget as "devastating." But that represents a mere 2 percent cut in spending. Obama frightens people by pretending that the $1 trillion cut takes place right away rather than being spread out over 10 years.

Sounds like more of the same. During the 2008 presidential campaign, Obama continually promised to "cut net spending" and make government smaller. The stimulus was promised not to "raise projected deficits beyond a short horizon of a year or at most two." Yet, now during the fifth year of Obama's presidency, we are told that we can't cut spending, that we need even more government "investments."

During his first term, when he racked up record budget deficits, we didn't see much job creation. As a result, the number of people not in the labor force has grown rapidly, by more than seven times the number of jobs created. Most of the unemployed have gotten so discouraged that they have stopped searching for work, yet another sign of a failed economic policy.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

- The human capacity for self-delusion truly is remarkable. Most people out there end up believing exactly what they want to believe even when the truth is staring them right in the face. Take the U.S. economy for example. Barack Obama wants to believe that his policies have worked and that the U.S. economy is improving. So that is what he is telling the American people. The mainstream media wants to believe that Barack Obama is a good president and that his policies make sense and so they are reporting that we are experiencing an economic recovery. A very large segment of the U.S. population still fully supports Barack Obama and they want to believe that the economy is getting better so they are buying the propaganda that the mainstream media is feeding them. But is the U.S. economy really improving? The truth is that it is not. The rate of employment among working age Americans is exactly where it was two years ago and household incomes have actually gone down while Obama has been president. Home ownership levels and home prices continue to decline. Meanwhile, food and gasoline continue to become even more expensive. The percentage of Americans that are dependent on the government is at an all-time record high and the U.S. national debt has risen by more than 6 trillion dollars under Obama. #1 The percentage of Americans that own homes is dropping rapidly. According to Gallup, the current level of homeownership in the United States is the lowest that Gallup has ever measured.

#2 Home prices in the U.S. continue to fall like a rock as well. They have declined for six months in a row and are now down a total of 35 percent from the peak of the housing bubble. The last time that home prices in the United States were this low was back in 2002.

#3 Last year, an astounding 53 percent of all U.S. college graduates under the age of 25 were either unemployed or underemployed.

#4 Back in 2007, about 10 percent of all unemployed Americans had been out of work for 52 weeks or longer. Today, that number is above 30 percent.

#5 When Barack Obama first became president, the number of "long-term unemployed workers" in the United States was 2.6 million. Today, it is 5.3 million.

#6 The average duration of unemployment in the United States is about three times as long as it was back in the year 2000.

#7 Despite what the mainstream media would have us to believe, the truth is that the percentage of working age Americans that are employed is not increasing. Back in March 2010, 58.5 percent of all working age Americans were employed. In March 2011, 58.5 percent of all working age Americans were employed. In March 2012, 58.5 percent of all working age Americans were employed. So how can Barack Obama and the mainstream media claim that the employment situation in the United States is getting better? The employment rate is still essentially exactly where it was when the last recession supposedly ended.

#8 Back in 1950, more than 80 percent of all men in the United States had jobs. Today, less than 65 percent of all men in the United States have jobs.

#9 In 1962, 28 percent of all jobs in America were manufacturing jobs. In 2011, only 9 percent of all jobs in America were manufacturing jobs.

#10 In some areas of Detroit, Michigan you can buy a three bedroom home for just $500.

#11 According to one recent survey, approximately one-third of all Americans are not paying their bills on time at this point.

#12 Since Barack Obama entered the White House, the price of gasoline has risen by more than 100 percent.

#13 The student loan debt bubble continues to expand at a very frightening pace. Recently it was announced that total student loan debt in the United States has passed the one trillion dollar mark.

#14 Incredibly, one out of every four jobs in the United States pays $10 an hour or less at this point.

#15 Household incomes all over the United States continue to fall.

FACT CHECK: Overreaching in State of Union speech

By CALVIN WOODWARD | Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama did some cherry-picking Tuesday night in defense of his record on jobs and laid out a conditional path to citizenship for illegal immigrants that may be less onerous than he made it sound.

A look at some of the claims in his State of the Union speech, a glance at the Republican counterargument and how they fit with the facts:

OBAMA: "After years of grueling recession, our businesses have created over 6 million new jobs."

THE FACTS: That's in the ballpark, as far as it goes. But Obama starts his count not when he took office, but from the point in his first term when job losses were the highest. In doing so, he ignores the 5 million or so jobs that were lost on his watch, up to that point.

Private sector jobs have grown by 6.1 million since February 2010. But since he became president, the gain is a more modest 1.9 million.

And when losses in public sector employment are added to the mix, his overall jobs record is a poor gain of only 300,000.

OBAMA: "We have doubled the distance our cars will go on a gallon of gas."

THE FACTS: Not so fast.

That's expected to happen in 12 more years.

OBAMA: "Already the Affordable Care Act is helping to reduce the growth of health care costs."

THE FACTS: The jury is still out on whether Obama's unpopular health care overhaul will reduce the growth of health care costs. It's true that cost increases in costs have doubled, but many experts say that's just the start of higher costs, whose main provisions are involved not yet fully in effect.

OBAMA: "Real reform means establishing a responsible pathway to earned citizenship

— a path that includes passing a background check, paying taxes and a meaningful penalty, learning English and going to the back of the line behind the folks trying to come here legally."

THE FACTS: The seemingly stern admonition that illegal immigrants must go to the back of the line, often heard from the president, doesn't appear to have much practical effect except in the most obvious sense. Everyone who joins a line, whether for a movie, a coffee or citizenship, starts at the back of that particular line. It's not clear he is saying anything more than that illegal immigrants won't get to cut in line for citizenship once they've obtained provisional legal status.

Like those living abroad who have applied to come to the U.S. legally, illegal immigrants who qualify for Obama's proposed path to citizenship will surely face long waits to be processed. But during that time, they are already in the U.S. and will get to stay, work and travel in the country under their new status as provisional immigrants, while those outside the U.S. simply have to wait.

Sending illegal immigrants to the "back of the line" is something of a distinction without a difference for some legal immigrants who dutifully followed all the rules before coming to the United States.

For instance, some legal immigrants who are in the U.S. on an employer-sponsored visa can't easily change jobs, or in some cases take a promotion, without jeopardizing their place in line to get a green card. In other cases, would-be legal immigrants in other countries wait for years to be able to settle in the U.S. Obama is using "back of the line" somewhat figuratively, because there are multiple lines depending on the applicant's relationship with family already in the U.S. or with an employer. Generally, a foreign-born spouse of a U.S. citizen or someone with needed skills and a job offer will be accepted more quickly than many others.

nobody is taking your guns away (simple paranoia on your part). And last, it seems to me the republicans are the ones failing to take responsibility - you know the responsibility for a lost election, blaming everyone but themselves, no responsibility for marginalizing people.

See Im the voter your party is alienating. The one that votes for republicans when they are not nutty, ignorant, buffons. The one that practices the fiscal responsibility as well as personal responsibility that the republicans have failed to do themselves. But I also understand that the financial collapse happened under you boy Bush you know that genius we had in office for 8 years that did pay for the wars he started, you know that fiscal responsible guy. You were not complaining then so why now? Are you all of a sudden a patriot when a democrat is in office?

By the way I am black, I am american, and oddly enough I respect your opinion. If republicans want to get more black votes they have to earn them and take responsibility when they don't get them. Try looking at what Mike Huckabee says about the minority vote.

The sign that should have been posted on the abandoned factory in Detroit is WHO IS JOHN GALT? What is happening in the USA was all foretold in incredible foresight by Ayn Rand in her epic novel ATLAS SHRUGGED. If you haven't read it, you should. It was voted the second most influential book behind the Bible in the 20th century in a Library of Congress poll. This was amazing because liberal-Marxist-progressive publishers and critics tried to suppress publication and the sale of all her books. Her other famous novel is THE FOUNTAINHEAD.

Kevlar, you are just stupid. This country looks like it looks because, unlike major cities over seas, we invest mainly in war. We do not invest in infrastructure and education as do other countries. We send billions of treasure to other countries in the form of armies and monies. I am not an isolationist, however if we concentrated on building this country and letting other third world countries build their own we would be better off. This has been going on since we rebuilt Japan and trained them in economics, instead of using that model to our benefit. Obama did not tear down the Packard automotive corporation, GM, Ford, and Chrysler did or capitalism did that is the way it works. We have been declining since the end of the sixties

A Yahoo! User • 2 mths ago

You definitely seem to know what you are talking about Tom and I only checked out a website or two myself.

Stalin was definitely an anti-Semite however. I have heard (not that much of this stuff is verifiable) that he killed more Jewish People than Hitler. What isn't debatable is that he killed way more people in general than Hitler. 20M range? Stalin was the epitome evil. He was worse than Hitler and the fascists also in the fact that he killed his own people...in his own government. The Germans captured his son in WWII and offered to trade him for a general. Stalin refused, saying that his son was of a lesser rank. Any man who would let his own son die in a concentration camp rather than show weakness (in a war that was already won) is the devil in my book.

At least Hitler was nice to his dog. Ever see the video of Eva, Goldie and Adolf in Berchtesgaden? Adorable!

Art F • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Ford and Hitler financed each other Tom and had mutual admiration. How is it insane to link them? It took 2 seconds to find the following paragraph:

In 1920 "In the same year Ford began financing the little known Adolf Hitler's anti-Jew, nationalist movement in Munich. It was Ford's funds (reported to be as high as $70,000) that helped finance Hitler's failed Bavarian rebellion in Munich. During Hitler's trial it was discovered that Ford's associates came in contact with Hitler's mentor Dietrich Eckart while trying to sell Germany tractors. Eckart asked for financial aid and got it almost immediately from Ford. Four days following Hitler's release from Landsberg prison, he stayed at the home of a wealthy friend where he received a new copy of Mein Leben und Werk (My Life and Work) by Henry Ford, a book he would revere and read carefully."

A Yahoo! User • 2 mths ago

Just because Ford didn't set up death camps doesn't mean you can't compare his ideology to Hitler. Have you ever heard of "The International Jew"? There were Germans that cited it as inspiration at the Nuremberg Trials.

Ford helped industrialize 2 of the most villainous men in world history

A Yahoo! User • 2 mths ago

I don't think anyone is trying to "discredit" Henry Ford. His contribution to history undeniable.

The fact that he was a fervent anti-smite is also undeniable because of the literature he published on Jewish people. Most of the founding fathers were slaveholders, but no one is trying to "discredit" them. It is important that history cast them in an accurate light however.

Almost 60 years since this plant operated for what it was intended for??? There is just no excuse for this lazy blight! I really don't care about the back taxes, the litigation... we need to start regulating these sites as the trash they are. Its no wonder we can't compete globally!

Remember WHY these factories prospered? Great properties located near transportation hubs, labor forces near by... how can we build new factories when this trash is allowed to stay around?

In our town Studebaker prospered here once as well...but not since 1963! And just this year the entire plant, which sits right in the middle of our downtown, has finally been cleaned up... but not in time for new business to move in...

What happened to our drive and spirit here in America???

Packard once was a great company that produced fine automobiles. Indian was the same for motorcycles. Both are relics of our proud past. Now we have GM building auto's that get recalled almost as fast as they can build them. It is a shame that companies that build fine quality products cannot survive in America like they do in Europe.

Nazi paraphernalia in DETROIT?!?!

What next? Billboards in Spanish in Arizona?!?!...

I visited a rural American town once, and it was very clean, very pristine, litter-free, etc.

By the time I left someone had scratched a Swastika onto the elevator door of the hotel I was in.

Odd that I was on a missionary assignment.

I haven't preached ever since.

You can't change people.

Let God sort 'em. He obviously doesn't need me. They sort themselves apparently.

Sounds alot like America these days. These particular #$$ze would not be the same race as the ones who were in the middle east at that same time frame, 1930's. Completely different crowd. They alone are not the only race to blame for troubled times past. The white settlers who killed off hundreds of thousands of American natives, and who also had a major hand in importing African captives to become slaves in America. The Apartheid in South Africa, The Cambodian Killing Fields by Pol Pot. The French Colonization of Vietnam. AlfredK, Its guys like Attila killing this country.

Silence Dogood • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The documentary 'the last days of the big lie' exposes many of these so called 'interesting stories'. The holocaust was in fact a hoax. In fact most of the Jews were already gone before the war. The Jewish bankers or 'Zionist' if you prefer intentionally left some of the 'unwanted' Jews in the camps as the set up for the hoax. They in fact knew that when the allies bombed Germany the supply lines would be cut off and many would perish, even many Jewish Rabbis are mad about it. Most died from disease (typhus) or starved. Eisenhower was responsible for the deaths of 1.4 million German POWs who he intentionally left in fields to starve. He was also responsible for 5.8 million German citizens that starved to death because he withheld the aid packages. Propaganda took off after the war, the media (all Jewish owned) used their power to persuade the people that the holocaust was real, in fact it was not. They have slowly reduced the number of so called deaths at the camps because many are starting to learn the truth and in the next decade or so, the holocaust lie will finally become known.

Silence Dogood • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

... and btw, it's not guys like me that are killing the country. It's Jews like you that are doing that. You and your masters, the internationally Jewish bankers that run most of the world's money supply systems. When we take that power away from them, and we will, we'll see if they can find a place on this small earth to hide from the 'Justice' that they will receive.

None of you including the writer of this article are getting the point, Packard made a superior product and could not hold on to the reigns of the business, this same show is all over the northern and especially the north eastern usa. Factory and buildings that held flourishing businesses are sitting rotting away, As these business were failing they were failed again by the government we elected to ensure the continuation of our nations. Instead of taking a long hard look at the cause and effect of the actions of our government they simply threw in the towel and hiked taxes on the few that remained to make up for the lost revenue and went on massive spending sprees that will take several lifetimes to sort out. The government stymied innovation by giving preferred treatment to the few that did not want change or real competition so we ended up with a lot of wasted real estate that no one wants to give up and no one wants to use. If it is a slight to the Jews remember that the Germans under Hitler needed those Jews for their work ethics and for their innovations without them they would have been defeated long before they were, but it had to be by oppressed slaves because the Jews did not follow the leader. To me it is a tribute to all the Jews stood for during that time. It is hard to hate anyone with that kind of fortitude.

Hey politically correctional, quit sucking eric j #$$$. obviously neither of you think deep enough to understand what this is actually saying about our Country and its unemployment problems.

PaulM • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

So what's it saying Simon M?

Pro-America/Anti-Democrat • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

What it is saying about our unemployment problems is that those who don't pay taxes keep voting for those who don't have a clue on how to actually create a job. Therefore it is compounding the problem. On top of which the same group of idiots, that is selling the soul of america for votes, is granting amnesty to illegals so that they can work on the farms instead of bussing the ghetto #$$ out to the country and helping them land a job and help move America's food production forward. But god forbid you make a person on welfare work for their check, that would be like slavery, right?

So basically the problem is that people who do not pay taxes should not have a vote. If you aren't kicking in money on the pizza for a party, then you should get to pick out the toppings.

And that Politically Correctional is the greatest post on the internet 02/15/2013. Can I get an Amen???

Marny • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

There have been more, but none of them has been as influential, world wide, as Hitler. That is why he is the standard by which all others are measured.

john • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The Arbeit macht frei logo first appeared over the gates at the labor camp at Dachau in 1933, installed there by order of the camp's commander, Theodor Eicke. When, in May, 1934, Theodor Eicke became Inspector of Concentration Camps, he saw to it that his beloved inscription was placed at the gates of all 13 death camps, and at least 38 labor camps run by the SS. Theodor Eicke sought and received transfer to the combat arm of the SS, and was killed in combat on February 26, 1943, near Karkov in what is now the Ukraine.

lovemexfood • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Fortunately Eicke was killed before he could collect a pension from the German government. To his credit, at least he died in combat. Most concentration camp commandants were too cowardly to deal with anyone except defenseless and starving prisoners.

Serge • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

He died when his airplane was shot down by Russians.

Roma Resurgens • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

@Lovemexfood, You`re quite correct. Being "sent to the front" was considered a punishment in the SS. Originally the German military was separate from the SS and soldiers were forbidden from taking part in "political operations" hence the need for special killing squads operated by the SS. In fact the part of the reason the SS was formed was to protect Hitler from the German military that despised him. After the assassination attempt and attempted coup (operation valkyrie) the military came under direct control of the SS, much to chagrin of SS men that did`nt want to actually defend their nation.

Crimson Ghost • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Roma, you are not quite right. The SS, "protection squads", was formed to protect Hitler and others when attending rallies and such. It was a vast organization that few today really understand. They made porcelain figurines, they delved into archaeology, they even owned a mineral water business, as well as running the police, concentration camps and military formations. There were two main branches: the general SS and the armed or Waffen SS. The latter was trained from the start to be military and Himmler himself decreed that this was the way it should be. He thought that it was necessary for the SS to involve itself in military affairs so that it would acquire the necessary moral authority to police, etc after the war. Almost a million men passed through the Waffen SS, many of which were foreign volunteers (some of the last defenders of Hitler were, ironically, French SS). In fact the best division in the German army was Das Reich, the number two division in the SS. The Waffen SS formations almost exclusively operated under Army control. If you read about SS-TK (totenkopf, Eicke's division) when they were in the Demyansk (spelling?) pocket you will see that although many appeals were made to Himmler to help them, there was nothing he could do. The SS never controlled the Army, except at corps or army level and there never was even an SS army group commander. The Waffen SS for the most part considered themselves soldiers and produced some of the finest soldiers of the war and also some of the worst offenders on the German side of the conventions of war. To say they did not want to defend their nation is an insult to the men who helped prolong the war. If you consider the armored formations of the German army to be an elite of a sort, then the Waffen SS armored divisions were the elite of the elite.

Crimson Ghost • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Oh, the fact that US society is pathetic, is pretty obvious. A herd of dupes that think terrorists are some sort of threat when they stand at least a hundred times probability of being killed by the guy next door. I would go into the statistics and such but that would probably be over your head. And, for your enlightenment, half the population is subnormal (gaussian distribution, blah blah blah - to get a little technical for you). And just what is the "wow" you are blathering about?

Airdale • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

John...I was not aware that Hitler had opened concentration camps as early as 1933 and 1934. I have always believed they were started later in the 1930s. I know a lady still living who was born in Dachau Concentration Camp in the early 1940s. Her non-Jewish parents were sent there from a province of Russia after it was captured by the Germans to work in the war production factories as forced laborers. Catholic nuns in that town took her into their convent and cared for her as a baby until after the war when she immigrated to the U.S. with her parents.

Serge • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Most of these areas are gangs and lazy minorities that never do much to clean their acts, or lifestyle up.

Listen, the truth is that government systems like Nazism and Communism appeal to the #$$%$ off, the chronically unemployed and those who have nothing but misery much as what happened in Germany. Do you honestly think Hitler would have had a chance if Germany wasn't in the perfect miserable position after the First World War? High reparations, high inflation, high unemployment, and a government that did not work, and boom you got Hitler.

Can it happen here? Oh yeah. We're just coming to the early stages of it. We no longer have an economy that can bail us out of the debt we're in, and the misery is growing, and the leadership (both parties) is not in touch. There's a lot of Nazi graffiti on buildings all over this country. That's just the tip of the iceberg. Again I ask: Can it happen here? Oh yeah.

Casey • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Insults and negativity.....tools of the small mind. You are correct, freedom of speech it relates to the government and the city of Detroit (a government entity) is under fire regarding the building and the fact it is still standing since the plant shut down in 1954.

"Jewish groups and Holocaust survivor collectives pushed for its removal, saying it was an offensive, ugly reminder of past suffering, reports the Detroit Free Press." Who are they pushing to remove the statement? The city of Detroit....which, again, is a government entity that is required to respect freedom of speech.

That is why Detroit is a ghetto, everyone just used the place and left all the garbage. Politicians were too busy grabbing the money and not cleaning the place gradually.

Johnny .45 • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Because it costs money to tear it down, and they might have sold it if they found a buyer. Is that too hard to figure out? Your business goes bankrupt, you're going to spend the last of your money to tear down the old building? Hah. Right. Whoever took it over was hoping it would sell if Detroit ever picked up again. Never happened. As it is, the only person who's going to be interested in tearing it down is whoever buys the property (if they ever do) and wants to build something else there. Whoever owns it now likely got it for really cheap, and they were unlikely to want to pay the costs of disposal, unless someone comes and offers to buy the place IF they remove the old building first. The city isn't going to pay to remove it, because they have no money because all the industry left and took all their tax money with them.

I'm guessing you're a liberal, expecting things to happen just "because they should", without any concept of things like "who's going to pay for it", and "what will happen if we raise taxes in a place that's barely managing to keep the industries from moving away as it is". No one is going to pay to tear the place down just because it would look better that way; this is industry, not altruism. If you want it torn down, then better find a way to convince another company to move in and build a new plant there. Good luck, as they've been trying and failing to do that in Detroit for decades now. Everyone's gone to China to stay, because they don't have to deal with the UAW or paying taxes to cover the military and welfare cases. Other countries recognize that you get MORE taxes by charging less, because industries will actually WANT to move to your country, not away.

Tim • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

It would have been nice to have renovated that old building (apartment housing for yuppies?)...but of course, it would have to have been in a city who's citizens would have appreciated it.

Michael:

You miss my point. For most of its existence, the Coliseum was an unwanted eyesore, and as another blogger points out, demolition doesn't happen for free.

Michael • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Uh...if Detroit had "kept up" with the times and instituted urban renewal projects back in the sixties and seventies, it wouldn't be the sheet hole it is today. I know. My uncle worked for GM...they got out of Wyndotte in 1968....just as the whole thing began to crumble. Besides, the Coliseum is written about in history text...the Romans/Christians, gladiatorial contests, etc. An old Packard Plant just doesn't quite interest the historians nearly as much.

Yossarian • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Hard to believe that some of the finest vehicles designed and made by americans were made there. Even weapons of war. Like the Merlin-Packard engines for the P-51 mustangs.

Just Me, Richard • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Yo -- Why is that hard to believe?

6StringSlinger • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

We were a united country in WWII. That's the difference. When it was over, all it took was one step to open the American dream to everyone, and Packard fell apart because of it. tells you something about the people of 1950's Detroit, doesn't it? It explains a lot about morons like Ted Nugent. Intolerance killed Packard. It's that social poison that keeps us all from moving forward.

I'm surprised no one has ever thought about re-activating the brand. They made sweet cars.

Tim • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The 1950's killed Packard. While they had some very lucrative contracts with the government during WW2, the Big 3 had even better ones. GM, Ford, and Chrysler could react more quickly to changing tastes in the automotive market. The head of Nash wanted to merge Nash, Hudson, Studebaker, and Packard into one large company to better compete but the deal with Packard and Studebaker fell through. By the time Packard and Studebaker finally decided to merge the writing was already on the wall for them. Studebaker killed the brand off (except in their corporate letterhead) and then Stude got out of the car business a few years later. It's one of the greatest "what ifs" in the automotive world. I imagine they might still be around if all 4 had been able to merge earlier in the '50s.

Welfare does make one a slave...if it becomes something that is relied on-- whether the person can work or not physically/mentally. Also, I have an original 1936 M-B advertisement which is for M-B aircraft motors in German airplanes...

Mary Farris • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

The ultimate irony was that Henry Ford was essentially responsible for the formation of unions at other auto plants - because he paid something like 5x the "going rate" to get the best folks - and so his workers could afford to buy cars (as "unpaid advertising"). Kind of like the sports team owners who whine about what athletes are getting - after they (various owners) attempted to "buy" championships by throwing potloads of money at their favorite superstars then being SHOCKED that other athletes felt they were entitled to something approaching the same amount!

Tim • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Lots of misinformation and heresy in this thread. Opel wasn't started by GM. GM acquired Opel before the #$$% were in power in 1931. Hitler didn't gain power until 1933. The #$$% took over Opel as well as Ford-Germany right before WW2.

I think the sign was a comment on our time. Just like work didn't make the Jews free then, but was a lie told by the #$$$, work didn't make the American people free now, but was a lie told by the companies and the government, not only in that plant, but all across America. In both cases, it was a lie. Actually, it was a pretty powerful statement to make on this issue, the death of the American dream.

Carol M. • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Actually, work does make you free. If you have money in your pocket it is a lot better than subsisting on welfare, not knowing how to feed your kids, standing in lines at soup kitchens and living in a cardboard shack in an alley somewhere. If you don't think so, go try it. Being penniless and without a home is not freedom - it is pitiful.

Always Thinking • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Carol, yes and no. Free Enterprise and work in a capitalistic system does make you free, the problem with Detroit was unsustainable Unions and unrealistic labor cost that were unsustainable. The union worker was promised that if they just work for the company for 20 years that they would be taken care of for the rest of their lives and that their families could have the same fate. In essence this is exactly what communism does, not only does it lock you into not being free, its promises cannot be sustained and the system fails.

Pseudonymous • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Unions = Democracy in the workplace.
Communism = Workers own the workplace.

The two are not even remotely similar, Timmy.

Johnny .45 • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Carol, while working you butt off and paying your way is certainly the better alternative, it's hardly "freedom" when you're slaved to a 9-5 and have to keep paying the mortgage (at interest) for 40 years or risk losing your home. We haven't had "freedom" for a while; it's kind of slowly disappeared. I think the last real freedom we had was when there were still a significant number of farmers with paid-for properties, who were self-sufficient and made what they used, bartered locally or did without. Since then it's been "work real hard to not lose everything you have" rather than "work real hard to feed your family". There's something to the saying "wage slave".

Always Thinking • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Unions = Democracy in the workplace.

Sarah Bourne. • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Ray, then you definatly need to stay here, because if you think the arguing and hate is bad here just wait until you go elsewhere, just the mention/notice of you being an American will draw ire from those around you, everyone hates us but given the chance they would sell their mother to get a chance to come here to live. I've traveled the world with the U.S. Army for over 30 years now (Armybrat/Job) and we are so lucky to be able to call ourselves Americans.

ray • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

OK Sarah you win, America is perfect. Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

What was our credit rating when obama took office??? Oh yes, we were downgraded during his first term! Oh, I guess 47 million people on food stamps is great for the economy too. While were at it, how about americans dying due to fast n furious and benghazi? Guess you libs would like to argue now???

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

He left with a surplus due to newt running congress! Obama hasn't even passed a budget in four years! All he's done is increased our deficit by six trillion dollars and helped get americans killed in benghazi and texas.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

You wanna keep going? gas was 1.86 per gallon when obama took office, our credit rating was perfect and now it's downgraded. Currently both n. korea and iran have nuclear programs while we lesson our military spending, 47 million people are on food stamps! But it's all good, you got your free obamaphone!

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Glenn, Mickey, better thank Newt and a GOP lead congress for that balanced budget! You may, however, thank Obama for a deficit of 6 trillion more dollars in 4 years, 47 million food stamp recipients, no new budget passed in over 4 years, and creating a class war so horrific that we may split into two countries because of it!

There is no arguing these facts!

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

incentives for foreign or national businesses to open, and then you create jobs and opportunity! It's worked for 250 years! Socialism stops working when you run out of other people's money, don't you agree? Or is it just easier to eat nachos and live off those that work?

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Grendel, obviously your prose proves you are well educated... So argue these points with data... Is it true that a record 47 million are on food stamps as obama sits in office? Is it true that He attended Rev Wrights church for 20 years? Is it true that he has added 6 trillion in brand new debt? Is it true that we were promised unemployment would never reach 8%, when it's currently 7.7 and had been over 8.2 for the past 3 years? Shall I continue?

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Here you go, Rick-too-stupid-to-Live, right off the Republican National Committee website, which address the KKK democrat thing to straighten out their stupider members:

The early Democratic party was associated with the KKK. However, the early Democratic party was also associated mostly with conservative causes. This changed late in the 20th century when the Democrats espoused liberal values. This change in values also occurred in the Republican party, hence the early Republicans' support of progressive and arguably liberal causes like emancipation and civil rights for African Americans. In short, the Democratic party during the heyday of the KKK bears little resemblance to today's Democratic party.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Southern dems started the KKK. Don't run from your party history. Republicans freed the slaves. Also martin luther king was a republican, as was frederick douglas, the first several blacks elected to congress were all republicans. The 1964 civil rights act... passed due to GOP, as a matter of fact Gore's dad phillibustered it! Clinton gave a eulogy to a member of the KKK who was a dem senator for over 30 years!

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

But then someone smart enough to see through your phuckterd arguments comes along, and all you can do it keep reposting the same worthless cut-and-paste merde. You fail, little teatard, and it's funny as hell. LMAO.

It's been 45 years, and the poor inner city blacks are still dependent on government because that's exactly what dem power brokers want. Republicans want a chance for those folks to get jobs and work for a better future, not exciting, but no way near as harsh as what dems are doing currently! Ask Starr Parker, or Allen West.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

"Southern dems started the KKK"! Too funny. Give you the exact damn proof you demanded that you are a lying sackofshmidt and you just can't stop yourself, can you, little teatard? LMAO, times three.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

So, you can't argue the stats is what you're saying? lmao. Game Set Match! Your insults were amusing, but alas you lose the argument without stats to back up your points. So keep name calling, and stay uninformed as you blindly follow your party. Name calling doesnt win, statistics do!

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

"I've tried to have a conversation with you"!!! Oh, lord, what laughable ratscrack! Uh, just a hint there, Rick-rube: a "conversation" is not spewing plagiarized FOXkrap in great idiot gouts. It's, like, talking. You know, like back and forth. What a failure of American education you are, little tea-rectum.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Gren, as I said, how can you discuss politics if you dont have concrete numbers to back up a philosophy? Just name call and change the topic? How can you honestly defend obama policy? What numbers are positive? We are heading towards every citizen owing 55,000.00 each toward the debt. Soon, no money will be available for programs like welfare. Then what will you vote for?

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

No, little teatard, stats don't win krap, as any educated person can tell you (OK, I realize you probably don't know any of those). When you pick and choose stats like you teatards like to do, you prove nothing. Krap in, Krap out. To quote Samuel Clemens making this same point: "There are three kinds of lies: lies, damned lies, and statistics." So, little teadummy, again you FAIL, and again I'M LMAO!

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

And BTW, repeatedly demanding of everyone who shows you what a brainless dipdumper you are that they "show you the stats" only works when someone is actually the least interested in humping around looking for numbers to show you how stupid you are. Luckily, I don't have to, because you demonstrate your dimwittedness quite nicely without me having to make the effort. LMAO!

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Sorry Gren, no matter what the governments own numbers are, you'll bow at the obama altar. You're being dishonest to yourself but not looking into the numbers and learning the truth. Those americans that died due to Obama weren't just numbers, or do you think they were no big deal either?

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

How can you base your loyalty on false claims if you dont research? The country not important enough for you to take some time to become informed about unemployment, housing, median incomes dropping by 5k per family, etc... That's what's different about us, I love my country as it was founded, you could care less.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Oh, god, please tell me you aren't really, really stupid enough to start the "Bengazi" chant, are you? "You lib'ruls don't care 'bout dead 'mericans, do ya"! C'mon, rick-rumpranger, can't you come up with anything that isn't just parroting the FAUXnews talking heads? I mean, I knew you were ignorant, but that's just pathetic.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

OK, enough fun with dummies. Nightie nite, O too stupid to live one! May your dreams of nuzzling Hannity's well-wrinkled nuts keep you warm and give you pleasant teabilly dreams!

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Your way of thinking is just what was happening in 1930s Germany. Look the other way, hope the numbers lie, bow to a powerful leader, give up freedom for the hope of security... All too familiar if you enjoy history.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Read a book, and learn from what happened to other countries that thought the way you've displayed tonight. It can never happen to us.... or can it?

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Yawn, OK, one more post, then off to bed. Here you go, dimswizzle. All numbers are from reputable non-partisan sites like Politifact. You are Wrong. You are stupid. Read it and weep:

At the end of the Bush fiscal year, September 30, 2009, the deficit was $1,417,121.

Obama's first fiscal year, September 30, 2010, the deficit was $1,294,090. The deficit went down!

Obama's second fiscal year September 30, 2011, the deficit was $1,298,614.

Obama's third fiscal year August 31, 2012 (latest available), the deficit was $1,164,373.

Republicans

Richard Nixon: Increase of 7.1 million jobs

Gerald Ford: Increase of 1.3 million jobs

Ronald Reagan: Increase of 14.7 million jobs

George H.W. Bush: Increase of 1.5 million jobs

George W. Bush: Decline of 646,000 jobs

Total: Increase of 23.9 million jobs under Republican presidents

Democrats

John F. Kennedy: Increase of 2.7 million jobs

Lyndon B. Johnson: Increase of 9.5 million jobs

Jimmy Carter: Increase of 9.0 million jobs

Bill Clinton: Increase of 20.8 million jobs

Barack Obama: Increase of 332,000 jobs

Total: Increase of 42.3 million jobs.

President Clinton balanced the budget, giving the government a surplus. Not one single Republican in either house voted for the balanced budget.

Only 5 (five) current Presidents have governed with a surplus. They were all Democrats!

The DEBT CEILING has been raised 79 times since 1960; 49 times under Republican presidents and 30 times under Democratic presidents.

Under Reagan the debt ceiling was raised 17 times in eight years
Under Bush the debt ceiling was raised 4 times in 4 years
Under Clinton the debt ceiling was raised 4 times in eight years
Under Bush the debt ceiling was raised 7 times in eight years
Under President Obama the debt ceiling has been raised 4 times in 3 years

Unemployment Rates

Clearly Democratic Presidents create more jobs per year than Republican presidents. Unemployment rates are higher under Republicans....it's just a fact.

Johnson 1966-1969 average unemployment rate of 3.7%.
Clinton 1994-2001 average unemployment rate of 4.9%.
Kennedy 1962-1965 average unemployment rate of 5.2%.
Nixon 1970-1977 average unemployment rate of 6.3%.
Bush 1990-1993 average unemployment rate of 6.7%.
Carter 1978-1981 average unemployment rate of 6.7%.
Reagan 1982-1989 average unemployment rate of 7.3%

LMAO, time the president takes over is his watch. You can't rewrite history with liberal talking points by changing dates to suit your needs. What was the unemployment % when Bush left office? I'll tell you, it was under 7%, what happened under Obama's watch? Gas was 1.86 per gallon, what is it now? Median income was 55k per family the day obama took office, it is currently 50k, a drop of 5k per family (the first time in post depression history) Obviously your searching for inaccurate numbers from left leaning sites, perhaps you should look at dates people actually take office.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

On the debt ceiling, Obama voted against raising it X2 as a senator. "Raising the debt ceiling is unpatriotic" ... B. Obama 2007. Are you saying there isn't a spending problem? You believe it's a tax the rich issue? How about 10% fair tax on everyone working? No matter your income you pay 10%, no IRS refund or write offs, just pay 10%.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Reagan created 22 million jobs, you really need to stop changing dates.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Yeah, that's what I thought, o-tard-o-mine. Once you were actually presented with the numbers you kept screaming about, you'd just deny and ignore, just like those loudmouth FOXtards you worship. What a sad, stupid teabilly. Ah, well, as the man said, can't fix stupid.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

BTW, those numbers aren't my "argument" or "what I'm saying." I simply cut and paste them from Politifact and Bloomsburg. Go scream at them if you don't like the numbers, dimknuckle. Where, pray tell, did you get your fake-facts, little one? Whoops, left that out, didn'tya, numbnuts.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Wow, reading back over these last few posts, I kinda utterly destroyed you, didn't I, Ricky. I feel kinda bad now. Kinda like kickin' a puppy. A stupid puppy, but still. Sorry, man.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Grendel, you didn't, by using left leaning numbers you've proven an inability to see reality. By calling names, you've proven an inability to be the sensitive dem your party wants you to be, by lashing out, you've proven an inability to debate. Answer me my lib friend, has the debt gone up 6 trillion since obama took office? YES... Are there now 47 million people on food stamps? YES... Has our credit been downgraded? YES... Did lack of leadership get Americans killed in Bengahzi? YES... Admit that your savior is the worst president since Carter!

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Gren, I got my facts from the congressional budget office, and the IRS sites. Quoates from Obama came from "The Hill", and look in any newspaper to read about fast n furious and bengahzi. I don't cut and paste leftist leaning msnbc #$$%$ and act like I know it. You are the reason america is sliding into another recession, you refuse to admit when you're wrong, and only care about yourself and your entitlements.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

By the way, TEA party members of all races are for following the constitution, lowering taxation, and limiting government. What is it you occupy types believe in, cause it certainly isn't America. Lucky for you I fought to protect your right to be stupid.

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Almost forgot, the article we are discussing was about NAZI writing on an old factory wall. Why would that upset you since you're already following a socialist leader? Seems you'd be happy to follow whatever the chosen one and media tell you, like a sheep. But you don't care anyway, as long as you get yours and have a rainbow bumper sticker, all is well.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Way to dodge and avoid there Pekerwood! You're the one who went off the writing on the wall thing with your very first post. Too funny. Blather and rant some more, Ricky-Rictardo! It's fun to watch the unstable mind at work. RROFLMAO! Kisses, sweet cheeks!

Here you go, Rickster. This will help you understand the depths of your irrationality: Storr admits that some of the beliefs he came across were more offensive than others, but says 'confirmation bias' plays a large role in how we form our views.

This means that many people subconsciously only choose evidence which supports their views, while selectively rejecting evidence which goes against them.

Confirmation bias, he says, relates to the neurological 'hero maker' that we all share. Storr believes we are all driven by an inner narrative, 'where we are struggling through our days to make better lives for ourselves'.

He adds: "Our brain populates this idea with 'heroes' who support our views and 'villains' in our lives who we demonise - it's a very black and white process. This is the world we live in - the brain is a storyteller."

Rick • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

Gren, looks like all you can do is name call, so this is over. Like I said, I fought for your right to do whatever you wish, but I thought libs were above name calling... guess I overestimated your maturity. Follow blindly those that wish to take your freedoms, and remember I warned you.

Grendel • 2 mths ago Report Abuse

And boom goes the teabilly. Bye, bye, little 'tard. I gracefully accept your surrender. And always remember this: it's not a crime to be as stupid as you are, it's just very, very sad. LMAO!

I see comments about how Obama, should have reopened this plant. But I don't see any of those same people explaining why the plant wasn't reopened under Bush's watch...
